international airport

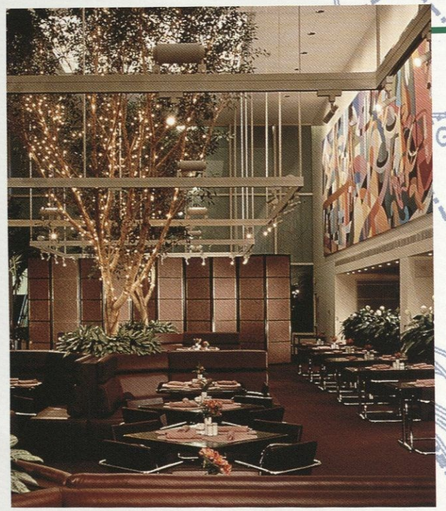
International. You hear that word a lot when it comes to airports. So what makes us different from all the rest?

Well, when we say "International" we're not just talking about worldwide destinations, we're talking about our community. Upstate, South Carolina has an international flavor rarely seen this side of Europe. It's no wonder global corporations like Michelin, BMW, Fuji, Hitachi and more than 225 others have chosen to make their North American homes here.



Such an impressive international community deserves an equally impressive airport. GSP International is that, and more. It plays host to nearly 1.5 million visitors every year, from every part of the globe.

We invite you to come and see for yourself. Visit our facilities. Spend some time in our community. And see an international airport that's truly, international.
